LOCATION: Berkeley, CA LIVING SITUATION: Lives with roommate in Berkeley

BACKGROUND STORY / BIO:

Darryl recently graduated from UC Berkeley with a B.A. in Data Science. During college, he was part of a consulting club where he was a project manager. He completed a few internships related to analytics and operations, but has no job lined up. Since graduating, he's felt increasingly isolated. He spends his days doom scrolling and often compares himself to his peers who post on social media fearing that he is not doing enough. Without the community and purpose college once gave him, his confidence has faded, and he's starting to question his self-worth.
